

CLIENT:

TEAM DANMARK

The e-Design Case

PRESENTED BY

LECTURER: ANNA L. PROVODNIKOVA, PHD

STUDENT: BALAJI KENDRE

INTRODUCTION

e-Design Strategy:

“Smash the world of design”

IDENTITY

- e-Design’s identity is ambitious, edgy, revolutionary design firm
- e-Designs wants to challenge conventional design and produce work that is distinctive.

“Smash the world of design”

VALUE

- e-Design’s value comes from its ability to investigate the client’s strategy and transform it into meaningful design.
- e-Design demonstrate that it does not create logo, it creates an identity with strategic meaning

“Smash the world of design”

ASPIRATION

- e-Design aspires to become a large, profitable, internationally recognized design firm.
- e-Design should present a design that represents progress, performance, and future achievement.

“Smash the world of design”

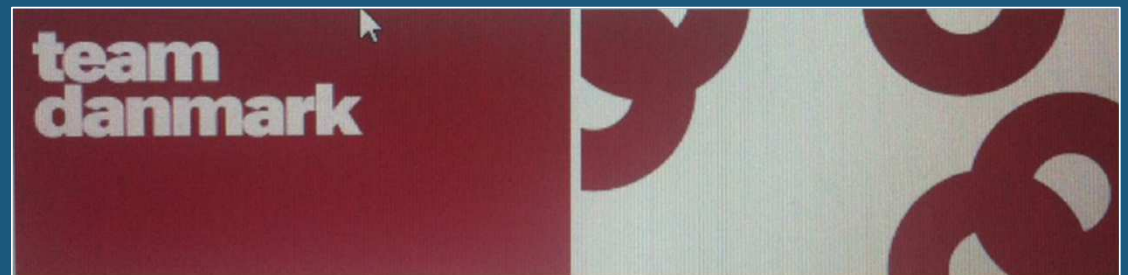

GOAL

- e-Design’s short term goal is to win the competition.
- e-Design’s long term goal is grow into a larger international design organization.

INTRODUCTION TO THE CASE

In 2006, e-Design was invited unexpectedly to participate in a design competition to provide new logos and new identity for Denmark's National Sports Team, a prestige client. The problem that e-Design faced is that they had two designs, not one.

ANSWERING QUESTION 1: What should the e-design strategy be going forward?

- The objective of e-Design is to win the client creating a platform for long term growth.
- E-Design strategy should be as built innovative one to future ambition.
- Present both designs classical and edgy and let the client decide that leaves the client with two unrelated choices, those would chaos the mindset of client relationship.
- To present only edgy design 20% chances of winning. The edgy design represents the energy, ambition, innovation, youth and future of Team Denmark.
- Present only the classical design 80% chances of winning. The classical design reflects Team Denmark's existing values discipline, unity, reliability and team spirit.
- The strongest conclusion of strategy is that e-Design should itself as the design firm capable of transforming Team Danmark's existing identity into as built innovative, stronger, modern and internationally recognizable.

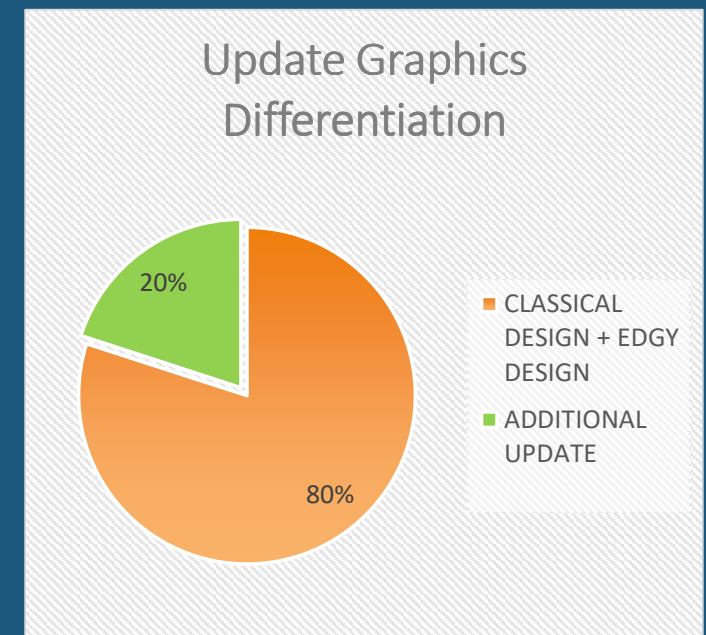

ANSWERING QUESTION 1: What should the e-design strategy be going forward?

- The best strategy overall is e-Design should innovative, but innovation must be adapted to the clients mission, vision, risk tolerance. This approach gives the company the strongest chance of winning the project while as built innovative protecting its ambition to a larger and creative graphics agency.

Recommended strategy:

ANSWERING QUESTION 1: What should the e-design strategy be going forward?

SWOT

Implications for e-Design

Strengths	• Strong creative capability • Distinctive design style • Ability to produce innovative concepts
Weakness	• Limited experience with a prestigious client • Edgy style may appear unsuitable
Opportunities	• Winning a high-profile client • Strengthen portfolio • Gaining publicity • Attracting larger clients • Increasing organization revenue
Threats	• Losing the competition • Damaging its value with conservative clients • Wasting valuable financial resources

- The best overall strategy is Update Graphics Differentiation!

Implement strong metrics in action customer service, customer lifetime value.

ANSWERING QUESTION 1:

Should they continue to prefer edgy work and build a reputation for that?

- Yes but e-Design should continue to prefer edgy work as its core creative identity while becoming more strategically flexible where as strategic concern how can apply that identity.
- e-Design should prefer edgy work internally but sell strategic outcomes externally.
- Its reputation should not be “the agency that always produces radical designs” but it should be the agency that brings bold ideas and knows how to make them work for different clients.
- The reputation would support growth better because it protects unique creative graphics advantage while reducing financial risk and increasing the number of clients.
- Edgy work can provide several long-term advantages: It differentiates e-Designs from other design agencies, It attracts clients seeking innovation and change, It creates publicity and portfolio value.

ANSWERING QUESTION 1:

Should they continue to prefer edgy work and build a reputation for that?

SWOT

Conclusion

Strategic choice	Main benefit	Main risk
Always choose edgy work	Strong differentiation and creative reputation	• High rejection and revenue risk
Always follow the clients preferences	Higher chance of winning individual contracts	• Weak identity
Retain edgy identity but adapt it to the client	Balance between innovation, revenue and growth	• Requires stronger client management skills

- Recommended strategy: e-Design should use client portfolio strategy.

ANSWERING QUESTION 1:

Should they grow up and broaden their appeal to more clients? Clients like team Denmark for example.

- Yes, e-Design should broaden its appeal to clients such as Team Denmark, but it should not abandon its creative character.
- The most effective strategy is to become more commercially mature while keeping innovation at the centre of the business.
- The organization aim should be to move from being perceived as a highly creative specialist to being perceived as a strategic creative partner.
- Broadening client base is important. For an ambitious company relying only on clients that want highly radical work is risky. As built commercial broader market would provide strength.
- From SWOT perspective, e-Designs edgy creativity is a strength but it can also become weak if it limits the company to a narrow group of clients. Working with Team Denmark could convert that creative strength into wider as built commercial opportunities.

ANSWERING QUESTION 1:

What direction will allow them to fulfil their ambitions?

SWOT

Conclusion

Swot perspective, this strategy uses e-Designs creative strength and reduces the weakness of having narrow appeal. It also takes advantage of the opportunity to work with prestigious clients while reducing the threat of rejection and unstable income.

- Recommended strategy: Should follow hybrid direction

- The direction mostly fulfil e-Designs ambition is selective growth through strategic differentiation.
- The strongest direction is an agency that offers innovation with strategic hybrid direction.
- The innovative case is to present recommended hybrid design this demonstrates the exact capacity e-Design needs for future growth.

ANSWERING QUESTION 1:

Staying edgy or broadening their appeal?

SWOT

Conclusion

Swot perspective, staying edgy uses e-Designs main strength but turn that strength into weakness if it prevents the organization from serving profitable clients. Broadening its appeal creates market development opportunities specially with prestigious organizations, but it must be managed carefully so that the company does not become indistinguishable from traditional agencies.

- Recommended strategic direction: Edgy in its thinking, flexible in execution, and professional in its delivery

- E-Design should broaden its appeal while staying edgy at its core these are not mutually exclusive choices.
- Staying edgy would preserve its identity but limit the number of clients willing to work with organization.
- It would also increases the risk of rejected proposals and unstable revenue.
- Edgy in its thinking, flexible in its execution and professional in its delivery.
- On the other hand, broadening the appeal by completely conventional would may win more clients but lose. the distinctive capability, allow short-term expansion but could destroy e-Designs competitive advantage.

ANSWERING QUESTION 2:

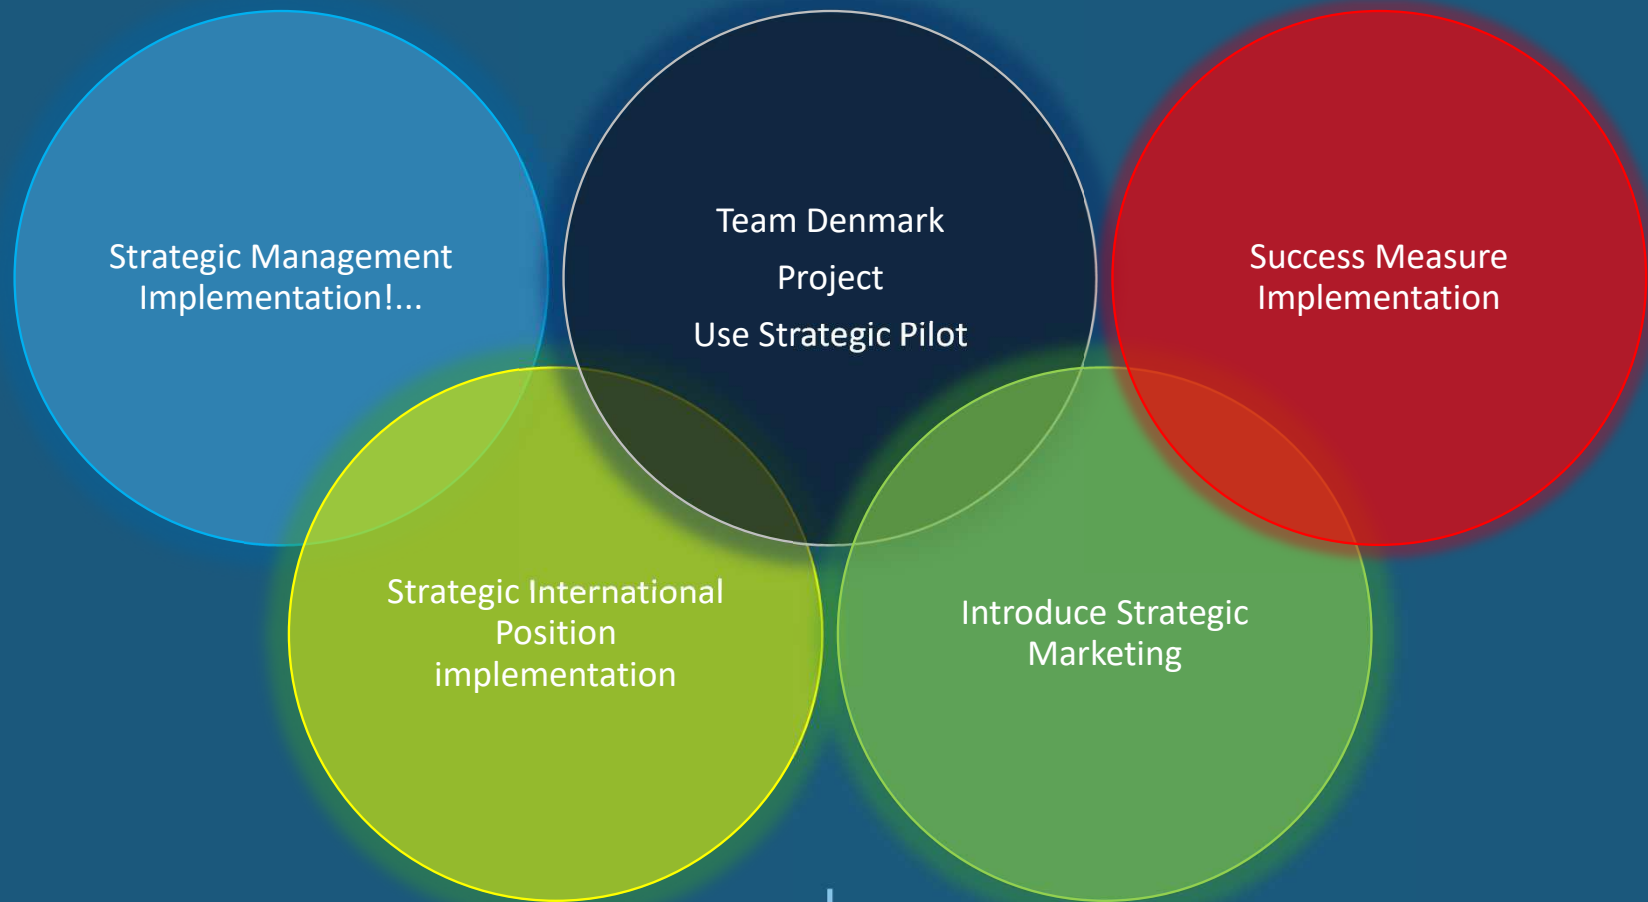

How Should e-Design implement their strategy going forward?

- e-Design should implement a growth strategy by establish a clear strategic international position.
- Use the Team Denmark project as a strategic pilot. Update graphics differentiation design international proposition this approach allows e-Design to show respect for the organizations existing values while encouraging modernization.
- Introduce segment the market and project selection process
- To increase revenue and client relationship e-Design should develop broader services
- Strengthen business and client management capabilities.
- Create internal creative and strategic roles to grow creative leadership and strategic expertise.
- Growth costs money, e-design should protect the finances and use staged investment
- E-Design should develop business with as built innovative high service portfolio.
- Measure implementation success with clear indicators performance. Strategies should be implemented in stages short-term and long-term organizations goals.

ANSWERING QUESTION 2:

How Should e-Design implement their strategy going forward?

Establish Strategic International Position:-

- :e-Design should develop international market position.
- :Its strategy should be on as built innovative concept.

Use Team Denmark project as strategic pilot:-

- : For the competition e-Design should present as 100% built innovative design.
- : Update creative graphics differentiation developed the strongest hybrid direction.

Segment the market:-

- : e-Design should divide potential clients according to need for creative risk and growth potential.
- : Before accepting or prioritizing a project e-Design should assess selection process.

Develop broader services:-

- :To increase revenue e-Design should expand business beyond logo design.
- :Generate additional revenue more valuable to institutional and clients.

Strengthen business and client management capabilities:-

- :Creative ability alone will not support large-scale growth, e-Design should invest in business development.
- :Before creating design the agency should review the clients strategy, target audiences, decision makers, risks and success criteria.

Create internal strategic and creative leadership roles:-

-:The creative leadership should continue to developing concepts, but account and strategic leadership should determine how those concepts can be adapted for clients.

Grow in stages:-

-:Growth requires money, e-Design should protect the finances and use staged investment.
-:Those approach reduce financial risk.

Develop business with wider high service portfolio:-

-:As built innovative concept projects strengthen its value.
-:Commercially reliable projects that generate cash flow.

Measure implementation success:-

-: Enforce clear indicators performance.
-: Strategies should implement in stages short-term and long-term organizations goals.

Short term goal: Win the competition

ACTION	IMPLEMENTATION
• Clarify the international position	-:To make clear e-Design what offering and strategic execution
• Create client selection system	-:Implement project selection process
• Complete the Team Denmark proposal	-:Present new innovative concept with hybrid direction.
• Set financial rules	-:Establish minimum and maximum project margins, deposits, deadlines and revision.
• Use written contracts	-:Define scope, responsibilities, deadlines, intellectual assets, fees, and procedures.
• Review client research	-:Review the clients mission, stakeholders, competitors
• High service portfolio	-:Display projects and successful work for established organizations.

Medium term goal: Deliver successful identity project

ACTION	IMPLEMENTATION
• Expand service	-:Add work brand strategy, nourish guidelines, creative design, events.
• Develop account-management capability	Create leadership managers who can communicate between clients and designers.
• Create service stages	-:Offer progressive, transformative, and creative packages.
• Built a multidisciplinary team	-:Add strategists, project managers, digital specialists and financial staff.
• Develop long-term contracts	-:Offer ongoing brand management and communication support.
• Attract and target similar projects and prestigious organizations	-:Approach sports federations, public institutions and established brands.
• Invest selectively	-:Use profits from successful projects to fund staff, technology, marketing and business development

Long term goal: Grow into a larger international design organization

ACTION	IMPLEMENTATION
• Expand service	-:Add work brand strategy, nourish guidelines, creative design, events.
• Develop account-management capability	Create leadership managers who can communicate between clients and designers.
• Create service levels	-:Offer progressive, transformative, and creative packages.
• Built a multidisciplinary team	-:Add strategists, project managers, digital specialists and financial staff.
• Develop long-term contracts	-:Offer ongoing brand management and communication support.
• Attract and target similar projects and prestigious organizations	-:Approach sports federations, public institutions and established brands.
• Invest selectively	Use profits from successful projects to fund staff, technology, marketing and business development

ANSWERING QUESTION 2:

Should they refuse to work on certain kinds of jobs?

- Yes. The e-Design should use strategic selectivity not total refusal.
- It should protect distinctive identity, reject damaging or unprofitable work and accept projects that supports its long-term ambition.
- E-Design should carefully avoid certain jobs that conflict with its strategy, values, capabilities.
- Selectivity will help protect its reputation and prevent growth from becoming unmanageable.
- However, e-Design should not refuse work because if client is cautious. A conservative client may be valuable if the agency can provide a credible creative solution.

- Recommended:
e-Design should adopt a selective acceptance international policy use strategic selectivity and not total refusal.

ANSWERING QUESTION 2:

Should they turn some clients down? If so, what kind of clients should they turn down?

- Yes. E-Design should turn some clients down, but only when accepting the work would damage its finances, reputation, capabilities, growth or long-term strategy.
- E-Design should turn down clients like as built sale create chaos in project team performance and reputational key risk.
- However, e-Design should not reject clients those are less adventurous than the agency.

The aim is not to accept every client in pursuit of growth, it is to achieve profitable and strategically appropriate growth. The Strategy should be built as follows:

- Enforce client selection policy
- E-Design should avoid clients that:-
 - Request unethical, discriminatory, misleading or socially harmful work.
 - Clients demand unlimited revisions or impose unrealistic deadlines.
 - Have unclear objectives, no clear decision maker.
 - Refuse necessary research and professional advice.
 - Would seriously damage e-Designs desired reputation.

ANSWERING QUESTION 2:

Explain which design you think e-Design should present to client and why.

SWOT

Why should present “Update Creative Graphics Differentiation”:-

-:Presenting new 100% as built innovative concept with hybrid direction design is perfect matching among responsiveness and differentiation. It strongly express e-Designs creative identity and more likely satisfy Team Denmark's expectations, mission and having higher chance of winning not only the competition but also win the prestigious client.

Strategic Solution!..

Thank You!